Introducing our Speakers

Steve Constantino

For the past 18 years, Steve has presented to thousands of teachers, administrators, and school board members across the U.S., Asia, Australia, and the Middle East. He turned a once struggling school into one of the highest performing schools in the world – in 5 years. Together with his staff and families, he led his school to many awards and recognitions, including a top honor as Time Magazine’s High School of the Year.

Currently, Steve is the Superintendent of Schools in Williamsburg, VA, but he began his career as a teacher and moved up through the ranks. In addition to holding leadership positions in education, he also launched a company devoted to family engagement training. He is a college professor and author of three books on the subject of family engagement with education.

Oscar E. Cruz

Oscar E. Cruz has served as the President & CEO of Families In Schools (FIS) since 2011. Mr. Cruz joined FIS in 2009 and served as the Director of Advocacy and Community Engagement and as the VP of Programs.

Previous to FIS, he was the Program Director for Community Partners, where he directed projects in the areas of community technology and civic engagement, and Senior Program Manager at Center for Civic Education, where he managed an international network of civil society organizations, school districts, universities, and foundations working to implement civic engagement programs for youth throughout the US and Latin America.
